

STUDENT VOICE FOR OUR YOUNG REPORTERS AND PHOTOGRAPHERS

Plymstock School now has our very own team of budding young reporters and photographers. The idea is to give our newsletter a 'student voice makeover' and several pupils have already expressed an interest and are keen to get involved. We now have a team of 35 year 8 to year 12 students who are all linked to a specific department of their choice and the response has been amazing! We have only been running this initiative for the last two editions of the newsletter and already have had 24 students write their own articles which previously would have either been written by staff members or missed out completely.

This initiative has already been a huge success and I would like to thank all students who have taken the time to submit an article with their slant on the schools news and would actively encourage any other students reading this to get involved.

Any students who do write an article will receive a certificate for their records and a chance to win a £40 HMV or iTunes voucher at the end of this term so come on what are you waiting for!!
